WE CAN BREATHE EASIER

We no longer need dirty coal-fired power plants to keep our lights on. In fact, our coal-free electricity generation capacity is now 28% greater than the forecast peak hour electricity demand this summer and 33% greater than the province's forecast peak demand in 2014.

THEY GET POWER, WE GET SMOG

Ontario Power Generation continues to operate its gigantic Nanticoke coal plant to export power to the United States. Exporting dirty coal power may help OPG's bottom line, but it is not good for our health or our climate. According to Ontario government calculations, OPG's coal-fired electricity generation caused up to 158,000 asthma attacks last year. It also released harmful particulate matter, lead and mercury into our environment while pumping out millions of tonnes of greenhouse gases.

SHOW YOUR POWER: ACT NOW

Please send postcards to Premier McGuinty and Opposition Leader Tim Hudak to tell them that you want OPG's dirty coal-fired electricity exports to stop now.
